COLE HARDWARE'S Hardware Hotline

September 2013
NEWS AND VIEWS FROM AROUND THE STORES

24-Hour Shopping on Colehardware.com

Back to the future. I'm excited to announce the debut of our latest and greatest entry into the world of e-commerce. Once again, you can shop with us 24 hours a day.

Yes, once again. This is our third iteration of online shopping since the beginning of time—at least Internet time. Back in the '80s, eons before the likes of Google, Facebook, and even Amazon, COLE HARDWARE was selling on the Internet. That's right. Do you remember an online portal called Prodigy? COLE HARDWARE became one of the first of Prodigy's e-commerce sites in 1984. You probably recall the original America Online format (remember the Tom Hanks/Meg Ryan movie You've Got Mail?). Prodigy was conceived years before America Online.

At the time, Prodigy was a joint venture between Sears and IBM. They were seeking retailers for what would be the first online shopping mall. I contacted them and convinced them that COLE HARDWARE was their best choice for a hardware store in that mall. It was a pretty exciting time, and we did have customers all over the country. But the cost to play became too dear for us, so we closed our site—just a year or two before Prodigy closed theirs!

Years later, we entered the e-commerce fray once again. We had a wildly popular site, but it wasn't very profitable. We learned numerous lessons this time around. The first and most important was to recognize that our mission is to serve our patrons in San Francisco, not in Akron, Phoenix, or Charlotte. Thus, once more, we shuttered our virtual doors.

Now, we're back again. Sure, we'll ship anywhere, but today the focus is local. And certainly "local" is what COLE HARDWARE is all about. We've launched a sophisticated e-commerce platform that allows you to shop anytime, designate a store to pick up your order, or have it shipped to you or anyone else. We worked hard to get a good selection of products for you to choose from: you can search through 70,000 items at this point! Check it out at colehardware.com.

Anytime. Anywhere. Just another little way we try to fulfill our simple mission: "Our commitment to you: Your satisfaction guaranteed. Period."

Victorian Home Trade Show

Sunday, September 29
10:00 am–6:00 pm

More than a thousand Victorian homeowners, antiques enthusiasts, artists, and tradespeople will gather at the Fort Mason Center on September 29 for the first annual Victorian Home Trade Show, an event dedicated to the history, restoration, decoration, and building of Victorian homes. The show promises attendees a glimpse into the rich history of one of the City's most recognizable icons and a look at the future of ecologically sustainable Victorian homes. COLE HARDWARE is proud to be a sponsor of the event. We will have a booth at the show and conduct demonstrations throughout the day.

"There are no new Victorians being built," says Realtor Bonnie Spindler, San Francisco Victorian specialist and event organizer, of the show's importance. "These special buildings are becoming rare like old coins and should be preserved and cared for. Victorians are well-crafted homes, intended for entertaining and to be lived in."

Visitors are invited to attend lectures by restoration and decoration experts and browse vendor booths. For a $10 entrance fee, Victorian homeowners, historians, and the simply curious can learn from the best in the business about the rich history of the distinctive homes that line the streets of the City, and

For the month of November, our spare change collection will benefit Meals on Wheels San Francisco (MOWSF), whose goal is to nourish and enrich their clients' lives through the services they provide. Their home-delivered meals program helps their clients maintain a healthy lifestyle and remain living independently by providing nutritious meals, a daily safety check, and friendly interaction. Professional drivers and their trained volunteer assistants ensure their clients' well-being and safety and offer companionship with a friendly smile when they arrive at the door. Drivers are assigned to specific delivery routes. This means that, over time, they are able to develop relationships with the clients on their routes.

In addition to their meals program, MOWSF is looking for project leaders and volunteers for their home-cleaning program. Corporate, school, and community groups often volunteer in teams to clean the homes of homebound seniors who can no longer do it themselves and who cannot afford to pay for this support. Project leaders meet with seniors in their homes ahead of time, help them feel

Dog Adoption

956 Cole Street
Sunday, September 22
12:00 pm–3:00 pm

Join us at our Cole Street location as we sponsor a dog adoption event with dog walker and trainer Joan Mapou and our friends from Wonder Dog Rescue, a group that has a long history of rescuing dogs in need. Wonder Dog helps dogs of all sizes, shapes, and breeds. Founded by Linda Beenau, Wonder Dog Rescue is a dedicated volunteer group serving the San Francisco Bay Area and beyond and rescuing dogs from all over northern and central California.

Wonder Dog Rescue has saved blind and deaf dogs, puppies as young as 2 weeks, and seniors as old as 15 years! They offer hospice to special-needs and elderly dogs, caring for them until the end of their lives. Each animal has so much to offer—and we learn so much by opening our hearts to these deserving companions. When a dog comes into rescue, it is carefully evaluated. All dogs receive vaccinations and are spayed or neutered, and some dogs receive additional medical care or behavior modification. Wonder Dog Rescue works with each dog, giving each the love and structure it needs to move onward.

Dogs stay in foster homes until they are matched with their ideal family. Adoptions are meant to be lifelong and are taken very seriously!

Even if you can't adopt a dog, please come by and show your support.

- Make a donation of $10 or more during the event and receive a $5 COLE HARDWARE gift card.
- A $25 COLE HARDWARE gift card will be given to anyone who adopts a dog at the event.

Can't make it? Don't worry—We will be collecting supplies for Wonder Dog during the month of September at all COLE HARDWARE locations. You can purchase any of these items and place them in the marked collection bins.

Wonder Dog needs these supplies:

- Tennis balls (Skus 84298, 6198105)

WHAT'S UNIQUE?

Rust-Oleum® NeverWet™

A revolutionary super-hydrophobic system, this product creates a barrier that dramatically repels water, mud, ice, and more. NeverWet can be used on virtually any surface and guards the surface against corrosion and wear caused by exposure to moisture.

Most surfaces are designed for dry conditions, and water is often detrimental to materials that are penetrated by moisture:

- Metal surfaces corrode and wood degrades.
- Electrical equipment (motors and switches) arc and fail.
- Clothing and other cloth surfaces fail to insulate against weather.
- Cardboard packaging wilts and fails to protect its contents.

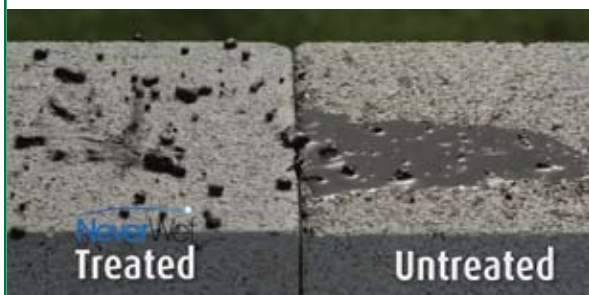

Any object coated with NeverWet literally cannot be touched by liquid. Any liquid placed on this coating is repelled and simply rolls off without touching the underlying surface. Not only is this amazing to see, but it solves a myriad of problems. Items treated with NeverWet coatings have remained under seawater for over a year and reemerged completely dry.

When dirt and dust sit on one of the treated surfaces, water quickly flushes it away. The water is repelled by the coating, and the dirt is attracted to the water. Even under extreme conditions like high-pressure spray, this coating maintains its super-hydrophobic characteristics. The low-odor, easy two-step application requires only a minimal wait time before exposure to water. The kit covers a 10- to 15-square-foot area. (Sku 1514181, $21.99)

Verilux® Lighting

Improve your indoor environment—switch the bulbs in your frequently used light fixtures to energy-efficient Verilux Natural Spectrum light bulbs and promote alertness, health, and an overall sense of well-being by bathing your home in the full spectrum of natural sunlight.

Our eyes are designed to work most efficiently in natural light, a balanced white light. Ordinary incandescent or fluorescent bulbs, however, are unbalanced, producing a yellow or greenish light. Under these unbalanced lights, our eyes must work harder to see, in effect straining to compensate for the lack of balance in the light.

Healthy lighting is an important part of a healthy lifestyle, and Verilux Natural Spectrum bulbs are the closest replication of natural sunlight available, reducing glare, eyestrain, and fatigue.

Verilux bulbs are made of special composition glass that is not colored or coated but instead contains a rare earth element (neodymium) used in lasers. This filters out the excessive yellow part of the spectrum to which our eyes are most sensitive, and the resulting spectral distribution is much closer to what you see when you walk outside on a clear day—healthy, pleasing, natural white light.

Verilux Natural Spectrum bulbs have an economical long life, too—the average life span is over 5,000 hours, five times longer than ordinary bulbs and three times longer than other full-spectrum bulbs.

COLE HARDWARE offers a wide variety of Verilux light bulbs, including a series of compact fluorescents, and we now also have a collection of lamps from Verilux.

Original Natural Spectrum Floor Lamp

In the Garden September Garden Tasks

Tips from Dennis and Bill

Stop by our Cole Street garden center for all your gardening needs. The advice is free from the Garden Guys, Dennis and Bill. E-mail them with any questions: dennis@colehardware.com or blitz@colehardware.com.

In the Bay Area, we often enjoy our most pleasant weather this month—an ideal time to work in and enjoy your garden. Think ahead for the spring months and also about what blooming plants you can work into your growing areas for some holiday color. Consider permanent landscaping: trees, shrubs, and native plants do especially well when planted in our warm autumn soils and allowed to take in the winter rains.

✓ Mums: These hardy flowers will give your garden some fall flair if planted now. Our Cole Street, Mission Street, and Polk Street locations will all have mums arriving in September.

✓ Spring bulbs: Buy and plant daffodils, lilies, and hyacinths in September or early October. Tulips do better when planted at the end of October. Our garden centers will have an assortment of Dutch bulbs arriving in our garden centers this month, including alliums, grape hyacinths, iris, anemones, and crocus.

✓ Dahlias: Delightful dahlias are best suited for a sunny spot with well-drained, fertile soil. If your soil is claylike and heavy, work in up to 4 inches of manure or compost a couple of weeks before you plant. Fertilize with a balanced 5-10-5 mix monthly as plants start to grow. Do not use a high-nitrogen mix of fertilizer, those with a higher first number, as you will sacrifice flowers for leaves. A general garden fertilizer will work. We offer Eleanor's VF-11® All Purpose Plant Food. (Sku 7168073, $9.99)

✓ Evergreen hedges: A final trim will assure a neat overall look for winter.

✓ Water trees: Keep all trees, especially citrus, well watered. As citrus is mostly water, those planted in containers need watering almost daily. Citrus trees will get their last feeding this month. We recommend Citrus-Tone®. (Sku 7208671, $9.49)

✓ For the birds: Birds eat a lot of garden pests that would otherwise feast in the garden. Consider a bird bath or bird feeder to attract them.

✓ Garden tools: Keep your tools in good shape by cleaning with soapy water after each use. Mineral oil will remove any sticky sap. After cleaning, lightly oil them before storing in a protected place.

✓ Garden seeds: Gather seeds from perennials and annuals. Place them in brown paper bags to dry out for a few days; then catalog and store them in envelopes.

✓ Fertilizers and pesticides: These should never be applied during the heat of the day, even if they are nontoxic.

✓ Winter vegetables: Unless it is still very hot, plant winter vegetables such as broccoli, brussels sprouts, cabbage, leeks, radishes, snap beans, and spinach.

See you in the garden!

Black Gold® Earthworm Castings

This enriching soil amendment is great for use as a topdressing or can be added to water to make a rich "casting tea." The use of earthworm castings in many of the Black Gold potting soils and amendments sets their products apart. Since 1983, Black Gold brand garden amendments, potting mixes, and fertilizers have been available at fine garden centers and have gained a loyal customer following. All Black Gold products are professionally formulated to ensure gardening success.

The brand of choice for the gardening enthusiast, Black Gold also boasts a broad range of natural and organic gardening products that are listed by the Organic Materials Review Institute (OMRI) and approved for organic gardening. The 8-quart bag of earthworm castings is the newest offering in our assortment of Black Gold products. (Sku 7326440, $6.99)

Planting Fall Bulbs for Spring Bloom

Autumn is the time (October and November are best) to plant bulbs that bloom in spring and early summer—including daffodils, tulips, freesias, and hyacinths—and summer bloomers such as iris.

Selecting the Best Bulbs

Bulb is actually the common name for any of a group of plants that have underground storage organs. These storage organs accumulate reserves of nutrients that will ensure the survival of the plant during the dormant season and also supply energy for the growth and blossoming of the plant in the year to come. But whether your plant is a true bulb or a rhizome, corm, tuber, or tuberous root, there are a few things to remember when selecting bulbs for planting in your garden.

Choose bulbs that are plump, firm, and heavy.

Don't take any bulbs that feel soft or mushy or that are shriveled up. Larger bulbs will often yield more flowers, but they may be expensive. It could be more economical to choose midsize specimens instead; remember, these plants will grow over the next year or two and have plenty of time to increase in size and bloom as richly as the larger bulbs.

One thing to watch closely for when purchasing bulbs is the origin of the plant. Avoid buying wild bulbs—in many cases, bulbs have been so extensively dug in the wild that the plants are considered endangered species in their native habitats.

Any commercially grown plants will probably be labeled as a named variety or a hybrid; they should also be marked "commercially propagated" or "from cultivated stock." If the bulbs are not labeled, make sure to ask about their origin before buying to avoid contributing

Fire Prevention and Response During a Disaster

(“Are You Ready” Series, Part 10)

Disasters—especially earthquakes—create fire hazards, including broken gas mains and gas leaks, which can be ignited by sparks or open flames. With care, you can protect your family and home. Take steps now to prepare for the next predicted major earthquake or other disaster.

Prevention

Secure gas heaters and use flexible gas hoses in gas-powered appliances. Know how to identify gas leaks. Signs of a leak include a strong gas smell and rapidly moving gas meter (check the wheels without numbers, found above or below the row of numbered wheels). If there is a gas leak, shut off the gas main in your building. Remember, once you shut off your gas, only the power company can turn it back on. Gas Shut-Off Wrench (Sku 4008801, $8.99)

Know how to shut off your main gas line!

Check all product labels for flammability. Keep flammable liquids (solvents, fuels, acetone, pressurized cans) away from water heaters and stoves. Keep flammable materials away from heat sources. For example, keep curtains, upholstered furnishings, and bed clothes away from portable heaters.

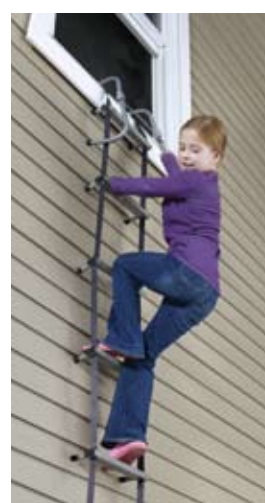

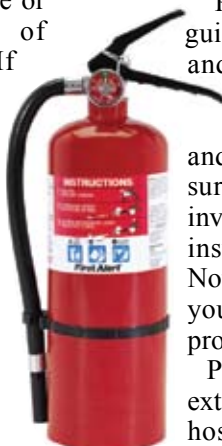

Preparation

Fire Extinguishers: The National Fire Protection Association recommends at least one extinguisher for every 600 square feet of living area. Fire extinguishers should be located on every level of a building, and kitchens, garages, and basements should each have their own. Do not mount close to a location where a fire might occur (such as a stove)—the user should not risk reaching into a fire or going into a burning area to get a fire extinguisher.

Put a date on the extinguisher (with permanent ink) and have it checked by a professional every three years. Check it yourself twice a year (use the spring and fall time changes as your cue). Make sure the needle is still in the green zone and invert the extinguisher slowly, five times, to insure the materials in it have not settled. Note: If you use a fire extinguisher at all, you must then have it recharged by a professional!

Purchase 5-pound, 3A 40BC fire extinguishers with metal handles and rubber hoses (metal handles are sturdier than plastic—the rubber hose helps to aim the extinguishing agent). (Sku 83559, $49.99)

Show house guests where the fire extinguishers are and review their use.

Emergency ladders: If all or part of your home is above the ground floor, keep a sturdy rope or emergency ladder in all upper floors (make sure they are long enough to reach the ground safely).

Escaping a Fire

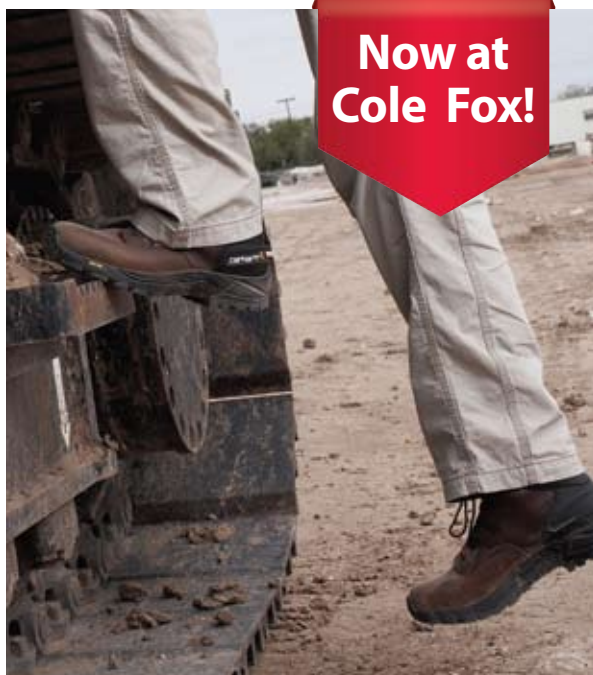

Crawl low, under the smoke. Feel closed doors with back of your hand. If hot, use another exit. If not hot, open the door slowly and check for smoke and fire. Meet at a designated meeting place outside, and then call for help. Never return to a burning building.

Rules of Fire Fighting

Before you begin to fight a fire, notify the fire department. Make sure everyone has left or is leaving the building. Work in pairs with two extinguishers. Never, ever try to fight a fire alone! Don't fight the fire if it is spreading beyond the area it started in, if it is already large, or if the fire could block your escape route. In these cases, leave immediately, close the door behind you, and wait for the fire department.

to the loss of these plants in the wild. (All bulbs sold at COLE HARDWARE's garden centers have been cultivated; none is wild dug.) Bulbs can be stored in your refrigerator for a few weeks until you are ready to plant them. Keep them in a sealed plastic bag away from food.

Bulbs Need Good Soil

Good soil is crucial to winter/wet season survival as well as bloom performance in subsequent years. Drainage and moisture retention are key—saturated soil will drown or rot bulbs over the winter months. If the drainage in your garden is very poor, you might consider planting on a slope or in raised flower beds.

Soils that don't absorb moisture may be nutrient-poor. Amendments such as compost, peat moss, and fine-textured mulch will provide the organic matter for a good bulb bed.

Fertilizers such as bone meal, superphosphate, or specialized bulb mixes are highly recommended to add slow-release phosphorus for fantastic flowers next year. Mix into the entire bed or mix a small amount into the bottom of each bulb's planting hole.

Planting Bulbs

Most bulbs prefer full sun. Some, such as iris, crocus, and freesia, will appreciate some shade once they are finished blooming. Bulbs may be planted among other plants or in a bed all to themselves. Each bulb should have its own individual hole dug for it.

Work a complete fertilizer into the soil or, if you are planting around already-established plants, you can dig up to a teaspoon (depending on the fertilizer) of fertilizer into the bottom of each hole; then add an inch or two of compost or soil before planting the bulb. Each variety of spring-flowering bulb has its preferred depth (see chart), but a general rule is to plant bulbs at a depth equal to twice the bulb's height. Make sure that the roots (the tiny hairs) are facing down. In a hot area or in sandy soils, you can plant slightly deeper; in heavy soil, plant more shallow.

Naturalization is another option for bulb planting; many bulbs can be planted in meadows or light woodland areas to form a carpet of wildflower-like blooms every year. Be careful, though—if they aren't likely to receive enough water naturally, you may have to supply it through irrigation. The traditional naturalizing method is to broadcast the bulbs over the area and then plant where they fall. The drift should be denser at one end or toward the center, as if they had begun to grow in one spot then gradually spread—this will result in the most realistic effect. Over the years, overcrowding may cause a decrease in the number of blooms; when this happens, it's time to dig up the bulbs, divide them, and replant.

Caring for Your Bulbs

Caring for your bulbs once they have sprouted is quite simple. If you like, you can apply a light fertilizer just before bloom time; this can be done with either a water-soluble fertilizer or with a granulated fertilizer or compost worked into the surface of the soil.

Let the plant continue to grow until it completely dies off and turns brown. This enables it to come back the following year. It's tempting to remove all the yellowing foliage when the plant has finished blooming, but the longer the leaves remain on the plant, the more nutrients the plant will be able to store in its bulb for the upcoming dormant season.

meet craftspeople who can help maintain them beyond the 21st century. Victorian homeowners can learn how to switch to clean energy while maintaining the authenticity of their historic homes.

The event is sure to draw a crowd, as the market for home renovation and décor continues to grow. The Victorian Home Trade Show is sponsored in part by The Victorian Alliance of San Francisco, a not-for-profit organization committed to the preservation and restoration of Victorian and other historic structures. Forged in reaction to the wide-scale, government-imposed demolition of whole neighborhoods that were built before 1910, The Victorian Alliance of San Francisco remains the City's oldest all-volunteer, not-for-profit organization committed to the restoration and preservation of historically significant structures. Their passion lies in the world-renowned residential buildings for which our great City is famous: the Victorians.

According to Ms. Spindler, "The Victorian Alliance believes that the 'greenest' homes are those already built."

COMMUNITY NEWS

LOCAL SPOTLIGHT INTERVIEW:

Meet David Talbot

San Francisco is full of interesting individuals who give our City its diversity and unique flair. Our new interview feature will highlight some of these personalities. This month we spotlight David Talbot, whose best-selling book Season of the Witch chronicles San Francisco's wild ride from the Summer of Love through the tumultuous 1970s. These days, Mr. Talbot shops at our Mission Street store, but he enjoyed the creativity of our Cole Fox windows during his downtown tenure at the San Francisco Examiner and Salon.com, which he founded.

Hardware Hotline: Is your book named after the Donovan song by the same name?

David Talbot: Yes. I've always loved his Celtic soul. Donovan was not all about peace and love, incense and peppermint, but also had a dark side to his music.

HH: What was your inspiration for the book? Did you live in San Francisco during these times?

DT: I lived in Berkeley during some of the grim periods of the 1970s and moved to San Francisco in 1981 after living in D.C. Coming from the outside, I felt more of the history and experienced a lot that affected me.

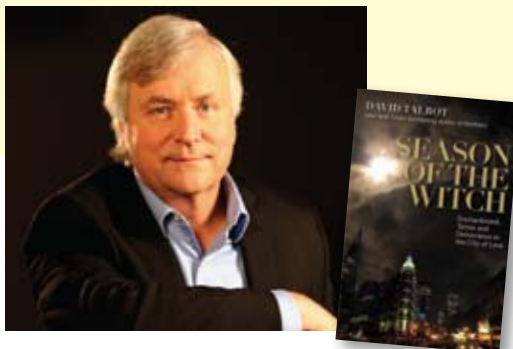

HH: Without giving away the ending to those who haven't yet read it, was the ending a hypothesis that you set out to illustrate, or did your research lead you there?

DT: How San Francisco recovered from the 1970s is an epic story about cultural revolution. I originally focused on how the City celebrates the underdog, but found that San Francisco really is the City of St. Francis.

HH: Your sources listed at the end of book are quite extensive. How long did the book take you to complete from inception to publication?

DT: I love talking to people, and most of the folks in the book are still alive. I interviewed over one hundred people and used the San Francisco Library's History Center. The book took about two years and just flowed and wrote itself.

HH: With your father, Lyle Talbot, being an accomplished Hollywood actor, you surely were familiar with famous folks. Did you find yourself starstruck by any local celebrities you interviewed?

DT: Maybe by some of the rock stars. One of my sons is a musician, and I am in awe of their gift. I interviewed Paul Kantner, who was incredibly articulate, at Caffè Trieste and loved talking with him. Mickey Hart was eloquent and articulate.

HH: Our founder, Dave Karp, turned 97 this year, and your father lived to be 94. Dave's advice for longevity is to eat half an onion daily, and he drinks half a can of beer every day, sealing up the unused portion with duct tape. Did your dad give you any tips?

DT: My Dad was just lucky and did everything wrong: ate bacon and red meat and never exercised.

HH: You were a pioneer in the age of Internet media, founding Salon.com. Do you read exclusively online or enjoy a daily newspaper?

DT: I'm old school and still love print. I start my day reading the San Francisco Chronicle and the New York Times.

HH: What books are you reading now?

DT: A ton of books about espionage and the history of the secret side of the CIA.

HH: Where would you most enjoy to sit and have a cup of coffee and read a newspaper?

DT: I love my home kitchen overlooking my backyard. I love North Beach cafes, including Zoetrope. Lots of places in the Mission.

HH: Which neighborhoods in the City do you most appreciate and enjoy?

DT: Classic San Francisco neighborhoods: North Beach, the Mission, Haight-Ashbury.

HH: Are you a do-it-yourselfer at home? If so, what projects are you working on?

DT: Not really. Our next challenge is our huge backyard that has become a wilderness, and we will go to COLE HARDWARE for supplies.

In Memory: Mr. Frederick Fox

COLE HARDWARE is sad to report that Mr. Frederick Fox, a hardware icon and the namesake of our Cole Fox location, passed away in July. Mr. Fox founded his hardware store back in the days when folks dressed up to make a visit downtown. Cole Fox crew members Alice, Amy, and Joseph all worked at Fox Hardware, and we are fortunate that they remained with us.

Mr. Fox's mantra, "You got to be lucky in life," was perhaps never truer than when he was serving in World War II as part of an Army Corps squadron. On the day of the 483rd bombardment over Germany, Mr. Fox was grounded due to a medical ailment. The plane he would have been on was shot down, and Mr. Fox's name was listed in the newspaper article among those soldiers who died. Mr. Fox kept that article framed in his office.

When Dave Karp and Fred Fox got together, they enjoyed talking hardware and reminiscing about the good old days. Mr. Fox will be missed.
